Duplicate Ballot System Explained to the Committee

Chairman Atkins Addresses Plea for Clean Hempstead Election

NO BALLOT NUMBER

Clerks Will Merely List Voters' Names—No Cards at the Polls

The election laws were outlined to the Hempstead County Democratic Central Committee Friday afternoon when it met at Hope city hall to select judges and clerks for next Tuesday's primary.

W. S. Atkins, chairman of the group, pleaded for a clean and honest election, declaring, "We want legal votes and legal votes only."

In part he said:
"As to how the election will be carried out depends upon the clerks and judges that you, the Democratic committee, choose."

"The ballot will be in duplicate form this year. There will be plenty of carbon at each precinct in the county, to be placed under the original ballot."

"Both the original and duplicate ballot will be numbered, and placed in separate boxes. The duplicate ballot will be signed by the voter."

"The Democratic committee has purchased 39 new boxes. The county has also purchased 39 new boxes. The name of the precinct in which the boxes are to be used will be printed on the side of the box. The duplicate box will be numbered and also will be sealed."

"The duplicate box is being used in Arkansas this year in the event of contested races and to reduce the chances of corrupt and fraudulent voting practices."

No Numbering This Year
The new election laws also specify that it will be the duty of the clerks to list the names of all voters. In other years voters were listed by numbers as they appeared at the boxes. There will be no numbers—but clerks are required to list each voter by his name or her name, whichever may be the case.

"We also have a law giving authority to any candidate to appoint an agent or what may be termed a 'watcher.' This 'watcher' has the right to look over the shoulder of an official when the ballots are being counted."

"Frankly, I am opposed to this provision of the new election law. I oppose this part of the law because it is a sham at the election machinery."

"This law, obviously, was based on two assumptions. They either think that the clerks have no sense and can't count—or they think that the clerks are crooked and can count. 'I don't believe everybody is a fool and that everybody is crooked. There was no need for this law as I see it. But we have it just the same. You didn't make the law and I didn't either. But it's the law, anyway.'"

No Literature at Polls
The handing out of cards and literature at the polls is prohibited this year.

"Any boy or girl becoming 21 years of age on or after April 10, 1935, is entitled to vote in the primary this year. Blank affidavits will be at all voting precincts. The boy and girl voting will be required to sign the affidavit."

"There has been much confusion in the past where citizens were legally entitled to a vote—but went to the wrong precinct to vote. Every man and woman is supposed to vote in his or her precinct."

After concluding his talk, Mr. Atkins answered several minor problems that arose from various members of the committee.

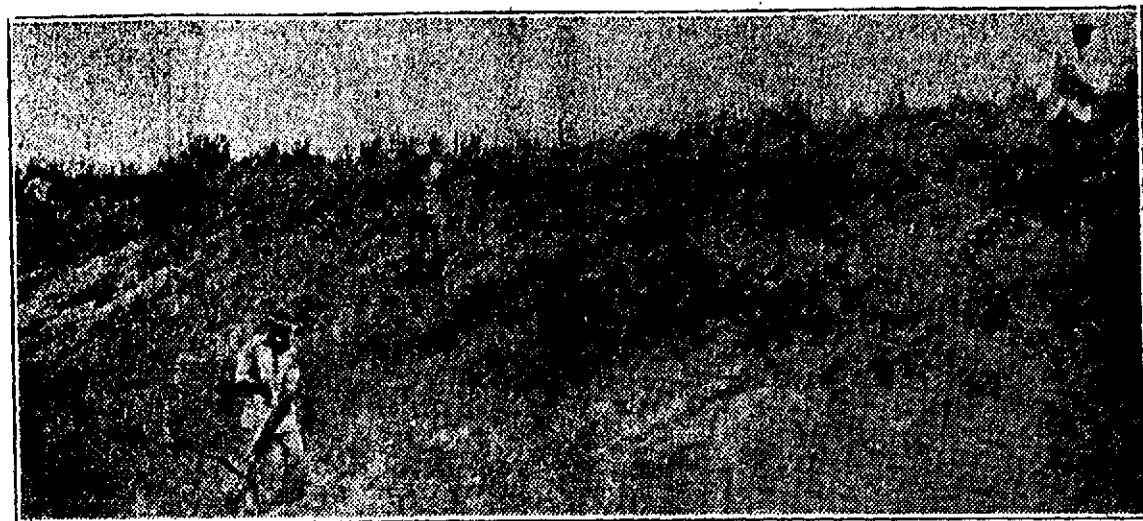

A motion then came before the body that names of the election officials selected by the committee be accepted. The motion was unanimously adopted.

Carl Bailey Blasts Cook, McDonald as Statehouse Pawns

He Charges Cook, Futrell Quit Highway Audit, Fearing Blackwood

AGE-PENSION FIGHT

Bailey Recalls His Successful Move for Sales Tax Share

By LEONARD ELLIS

Attorney General Carl Bailey poured denunciation upon the Futrell administration, R. A. Cook and Ed McDonald as "pawns in the same political pod" and declared they wanted "to further fatten themselves at the public trough" in a gubernatorial campaign address here late Friday afternoon.

Speaking from a platform on the Oglesby school grounds, Bailey attracted more than 1,000 persons, by far the largest crowd to listen to a candidate for governor here this year.

Introduced by W. S. Atkins as the "next governor of Arkansas," Bailey thanked the citizens for their vote two years ago in electing him attorney general, Bailey said.

"I always like to come here. Hempstead county is my pride and joy. I will remember that Hempstead county went four-to-one for me in my race."

Futrell Denies Cook Trend

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Governor Futrell issued a written statement Saturday asserting, "The present attitude of the administration toward the candidacy of Ed F. McDonald will remain unchanged until the last vote is cast."

The governor said his statement was prompted by a published report that the "administration forces" would probably go to the support of Judge R. A. Cook for governor. Futrell said the report had no foundation in fact.

For attorney general two years ago. I want to take this opportunity to thank you people for these votes."

At the start of his speech he outlined the needs of the people of Arkansas in their war on "human misery," pledging whole-hearted support of an educational program that contemplates equal opportunities for all children and adequate salaries for teachers.

Bailey's Platform

Briefly he outlined his program, favoring continuation of the present refunding program, advocating civil service for state employees, retention of the sales tax to carry on a progressive welfare program, and said that he favored a constitutional amendment vesting the power of paroles and pardons in the hands of a non-political commission.

He blamed "political pressure" for the releasing of criminals from the state penitentiary. He said the duty of pardons and paroles should be taken out of the governor's hands.

Midway in his speech Bailey turned upon the Futrell administration, denounced the "shakedown racket in the statehouse" and said that he would end the "assessment" of state employees for campaign purposes.

"There will be no more slush funds for political purposes to buy the governor's office," he said.

Lashing out at Futrell, R. A. Cook and Ed McDonald, Bailey accused them of attempting to link him with a "political gang I have been at war with."

The Umpire Does the Pitching in This Political Ball Game!

Editorial by A. H. Washburn

ON Tuesday I am going to vote for Griffin Smith for chief justice of the supreme court. I am going to vote against C. E. Johnson, who is seeking re-election.

The reason I am going to vote against Mr. Johnson is this:

As chief justice of the supreme court he is the highest judge in the state. He should be an umpire in the political game—and not a player. But Mr. Johnson has made himself the most politically active chief justice in modern times.

He was Governor Futrell's campaign manager in 1932. He got for himself the top position among Arkansas' judges. And then, after his elevation to this non-political post, he continued to hold close to himself the reins of patronage which the politicians are supposed to handle. His brother is head of District Three highway office in Hope. His other appointments range over the state—and it has been common gossip in all our section of the country that a politician could not go to Little Rock for the smallest kind of a job without stumbling across the Chief Justice.

Now all this has been common knowledge for several years, and The Star has rapped the Chief Justice in one editorial after another. All that we have to say to the lawyers who presume now to defend the Chief Justice is simply this: A newspaper can strike successfully only on election day—that day is here, and what we have warned of these last several years we are striking for now.

We have every reason in the world to be incensed against the Chief Justice.

We were the first of the larger newspapers to advocate the candidacy of J. Marion Futrell for governor in 1932, seeking a man to fill a state emergency. This newspaper has no final say about the people's decisions, but whatever influence we do have, that influence went to make Futrell governor so far as the people of this section were concerned in 1932.

Mr. Johnson got from that campaign the chief justiceship. In itself, this was all right. Mr. Johnson is personally qualified—BUT A CHIEF JUSTICE WHO FOREVER DABBLE IN THE POLITICAL ARENA IS PUBLICLY DISQUALIFIED.

Mr. Johnson went into power when Futrell met an emergency in the state's political administration.

Mr. Johnson on Tuesday is going out of power because while Futrell was curing one emergency Johnson was creating a new emergency in the supreme court.

The house Futrell built up, Johnson has torn down.

Ed McDonald, the statehouse candidate for governor, and Johnson are headed for everlasting defeat on Tuesday.

Spain Hits Rebels

MADRID, Spain.—(AP)—The revitalized Leftist armies of the government smashed through the Fascist lines in three sectors Saturday in a new offensive.

Loyalist commanders reported the capture of all towns surrounding the northeastern provincial capital of Huesca, advances in the Guadarrama mountain passes, and the suppression of an attempted revolution in southwestern Badajoz.

"The rebels are losing all hopes of winning the fight," the government asserted.

The new victories came after a sudden switch from impassioned defense to a deadly offense by Leftist troops against the insurgent regiments.

ACREAGE IS UP 9.8

Heavy Production Is Indicated for Arkansas in Current Year

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A cotton crop of 12,481,000 bales this year was forecast Saturday by the Department of Agriculture in its first production report of the season.

Last year's crop was 10,638,391 bales. The cotton acreage this year is 9.8 per cent larger than last year's. The department placed it at 29,924,000 acres. The condition of the crop August 1, and the indicated production by states included:

Arkansas 84 per cent, and 1,272,000 bales.

Price Off $1.50 Bale

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Cotton futures on the Board of Trade broke 28 to 2 points Saturday after the release of the government's report estimating the crop at 12,481,000 bales.

Later the market rallied one to nine points and closed with a loss of about $1.50 a bale.

Local Campaigns Draw to a Close

Tours of Two Counties to Wind Up in Hope and Prescott Monday

Hempstead county candidates closed their field tour Saturday, with the speaking at Washington morning and afternoon, attracted a crowd of approximately 300. The campaign will formally end with an all-day rally in Hope Monday.

The Nevada candidates wound up their field canvass with addresses at Waterloo Friday night, and will close with a night meeting at Prescott Monday, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Hempstead County Judge H. M. Stephens had an interruption Saturday at Washington. He was called on to perform a marriage ceremony. Immediately after he made his speech he married Miss Dorothy Ellis, aged 15, of Hope to A. B. Hill, aged 19, of Spring Hill. Miss Frances Payne attended the couple.

The ceremony was performed at the northwest side of the courthouse—while just a few yards away the political race boomed on.

Marion Zioncheck Commits Suicide

Playboy Congressman Jumps to Death From Seattle Office Building

SEATTLE, Wash.—(AP)—Worry over the advice of a psychiatrist that he must drop his campaign and take a long rest, was blamed by friends and associates Saturday for the five-story plunge to death of Congressman Marion Zioncheck here Friday night.

Commits Suicide

SEATTLE, Wash.—(AP)—Before the eyes of his bride, Representative Marion A. Zioncheck, Seattle's playboy congressman, leaped to his death Friday night in a five-story plunge which the coroner expressed belief was suicide.

A note found in the fifth floor room of the Arctic building and apparently written by Zioncheck was said by Coroner Otto Mittelstadt to read:

"My only hope in life was to improve the conditions of an unfair economic system."

Persons who saw the 34-year-old congressman fall from the window said he apparently was killed instantly. He fell soon after 6 p. m. while the streets were crowded.

The congressman's body, hurtling down onto a sidewalk, narrowly missed striking W. H. MacFarlane, loan broker, who was walking by.

Zioncheck's brother-in-law, William Nadeau, was in the room used for campaign headquarters at the time the coroner said. Nadeau said they both started to leave the office, but Zioncheck whirled and ran 18 feet to the window from which he dived head first.

"It was horrible," MacFarlane said. "I was waiting along and the first thing I knew, he leaped at my feet."

The congressman's hatless, coatless body struck the pavement only a few feet from where his wife, the former

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The child who is different from other children requires special attention and training to make the most of what he has, and to avoid his being pushed into the category of the defective or the abnormal.

The first step, obviously, is to determine the nature of his difference. The expert will stress the qualities that are important for achievement, and minimize those that are likely to lead to failure.

In the past, all children were put into common schools and no effort was made to select those with marked aptitudes, or with physical defects, for special training. Children are likely to be teased and be cruel to those who are different, thus giving them a feeling of inferiority, and showing them gradually beyond the border of social adjustment.

Sometimes the difficulties in the home are even worse than those in school. The child who is different will not seem to fit into the life of the family.

This is the last of the series of articles by Dr. Fishbein on "Your Baby's Health."

The family. A father may be dominating and cruel; the mother over-protective and weak.

Adaptation as they are to be of the utmost service to the child, the parents nevertheless may fail in the very phases in which they are most anxious to be helpful.

Too much coddling produces what the boys call a "sissy." If the child learns that it can dominate its parents, it becomes spoiled and tyrannical.

One of the finest developments of recent years has been the special schools for youngsters who are different. In these schools, they are given opportunity to develop the traits that are important. If the children happen to be physically defective, special means are provided to help them overcome their defects.

You must not look upon a special school merely as a place in which to put children who are not able to keep up with others. We have learned that we owe equal duties to those with special talents and extraordinary intellect, who are able to proceed faster than other children, or who may have within themselves the seeds of genius.

A child may find it simply impossible to learn how to spell correctly, and yet to be able to sketch admirably.

The child that is different should have, first of all, expert study as to the nature of his difference, and then special care and teaching to permit it to make the most of its physical and mental qualities, and its genius, if it has any.

The STORY OF SPAIN

This is the third of four stories telling the tragic history of Spain, giving the background of today's bloody internal warfare.

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Though direct downfall did not follow the defeat of the great Armada, Spain declined for that day. It was a hollow shell, with vernal and incompetent officials, stupid and bigoted rulers, and a people whose every effort at industrial or agricultural progress was thwarted by taxation and a stifling bureaucracy.

The Hapsburg emperors used the country as a pawn in the European diplomatic game; domestic government was weak and tyrannical at once. A rebellion in Catalonia, which even today maintains great pride of locality, was savagely suppressed. Portugal fell away without a fight, for when the Braganças took charge there, the Spanish crown was engaged in a fight with the French. Naples revolted, and the Thirty Years' War took a dreary toll of Spanish resources. Continual and bitter warfare was necessary to keep a foothold in the Netherlands.

Wars with the French were continual, inspired by childish intrigues of intermarriage among the royalties of both countries.

Under Hapsburg rule, the population of Spain declined from 20,000,000 to 8,000,000. Public finances were a wreck, the army and navy demoralized and ruined. In 1700 the last Hapsburg king died, leaving the crown to a French Bourbon, Philip V.

Europe's Battleground

Now Spain found herself in the middle, allied with France against a coalition of England, Holland, Denmark, Austria and Prussia. Spain was the battleground. Allied troops took Barcelona, freed the Spanish Netherlands, and invaded Spain itself through Portugal. Even Madrid was captured. Spanish troops fought and died in every intriguing campaign throughout Europe.

When the French Revolution overturned monarchy in France, Spain was too weak to intervene. But her royal house made its position clear—it was against the revolution. A Spanish army invaded France after Louis XVI had been executed, but was driven out, and French revolutionary troops swarmed through Catalonia. The Spanish people neither supported their own king nor rallied to the revolutionary forces as the French hoped. They simply suffered. Peace had to be made to avoid complete conquest.

Fresh Disaster at Sea

Rebellion was already rumbling in Peru and Mexico. And the Spanish monarch chose this time to form an alliance with France against England. Napoleon, who had taken over the French Revolution, demanded that Spain, as his ally, declared war on Portugal, his enemy. Against his will, King Charles had to invade Portugal, supported by a French army. This campaign was inconclusive, but left

Spain exhausted by a corrupt and much bloodshed.

French Yoke Tightened

This unorganized resistance developed into an organized campaign against the French, for Napoleon had dared to make his brother Joseph king of Spain. Napoleon himself had to come to Spain to conduct the campaign to subjugate the Spaniards and beat the English, who were against invading from Portugal. At first Napoleon's genius won both objectives, but then came Wellington in charge of a new English expedition.

In his classic Peninsular campaign, Wellington drove out the French, which gave opportunity for Ferdinand to return to his Spanish throne. He faced, in 1814, the final revolutions in the Americas, revolutions that were VII, who had been ousted by Napoleon to sweep away his empire overseas

A Home at Last

"I like Hollywood. I don't care what it says about my face. People are nice, though. They tell me I've gone Hollywood already because I got engaged to Johnny Torrence one day tion. Jaime had made no effort whatsoever to gain her love. He would have laughed at the old-fashioned word "courtship." She had simply fallen for him from the start.

AND it was strange that she should feel this way. It wasn't his money—plenty of which he seemed to have despite his losses at gambling; it was mainly his manner toward her. Jaime was personable, charming, and they enjoyed the same things. They laughed at the same jokes. But, in the back of her mind, was a faint desire to reform him.

The idea grew until it subordinated all other considerations. It satisfied some urge in her that she couldn't define.

But a desire to reform a man does not help gain insight into the man's real character. The vacation experience blinded Ann. She didn't know Jaime Laird.

She got up and flung the window open. Gone were her doubts when she saw the bright sun on the choppy waves out there.

When she went downstairs she met Bill Ware in the lobby. He came toward her again with his ridiculous air of proprietorship. He was sure of himself—that young man!

But Ann recalled his sincere avowal of his feeling for her. His chin was stubborn. He had said, "Perhaps every man is selfish over the girl he loves."

Bill couldn't afford yachts and gay parties, but when he saw something he thought was really worth while, he went after it.

SHE was talking to Bill on the porch when Jaime drove up to take her to the regatta on St. Regis Lake. For a moment the two men eyed each other with cool, measuring regard. Bill couldn't find it in himself to dislike this personable youth who had somehow walloped his chances of sweeping Ann off her feet.

But Bill felt that, of all the men at the resort, Ann had picked the wrong man. After he had waited all these years to find the right girl, she had fallen for a weakling. All that Bill could do was to wait—and see what would happen.

Instinct told him that Ann was infatuated with this gay lad. The way she looked at him, the way she made him tie his reefers against the morning chill, the bright chatter she conjured out of the air for him—all convinced Bill of the futility of his own blind efforts to make her see his love.

When the pair drove away, their gay voices drowned by the roar of Jaime's expensive motor, Bill felt forlorn and lonely. His throat hurt.

It was a bitter ordeal he endured on the mountain that morning, but the ordeal was not in the climb. He lived too intensely at all times. He had stubbornly laid his course, and he wasn't going to deviate from it, no matter how much it hurt! He was in love with the girl.

To Ann it was an idyllic day. She lay back among the pillows in the stern of the sailboat, while Jaime kept his hand on the tiller. The regatta on St. Regis Lake was exciting. The whole fleet was out, and the pink and white sails dotting the lake looked like butterflies on the wing.

SAILING was new to her, but it was no less pleasing than Jaime's behavior today. He was deferential. He remembered all the little things that pleased her. His flattery was warm and, since there were so many other pretty girls who waved gaily to him from boats, it was convincing.

When the boat was in its pen again, and they were driving along the shore, watching the sun set behind the neighboring mountain range, there was a look in Jaime's eyes that made her believe in him at last. She didn't distrust her impulses any longer. Just now she wanted to know him better. She yielded to her own urge to heart-searching.

He parked the car on a peninsula which jutted out into the lake, and for a long time they sat there, silent. He slipped an arm around her, holding her close.

"Have a good time?"

"What do you think?" she asked, smiling. "It was marvelous. Too soon this is all going to end."

"Why must it end? I don't want it to end."

"Work!" she said succinctly. "Back to the pots and pans."

"Oh—work! Let's not talk about anything disagreeable now." Suddenly his eyes shone, and he turned to her. "What do you say? Let's pack our duds and run up to Canada for the week-end. You'll be back in plenty of time to climb that absurd mountain you've promised to climb with Bill Ware."

"That sounds very attractive," she said. "But—"

"We'd have a gay time! Don't be a fossil. What do you care what a lot of porch-sitters at the hotel would say? We're young. We'll have our fun where we find it. It's nobody's business but our own—up here in the mountains."

Her voice was calm. "Yes, in a vacation place, a resort hotel, it's nobody's business but our own. That's why I couldn't go. I'm thinking about—us."

Roosevelt to Sit With Gov. Landon

Will Meet Republican Opponent at Conference With Governors

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(AP)—A meeting with Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas at a conference of drouth state governors was projected Friday night by President Roosevelt.

Completing the outlines of a trip through Midwestern drouth regions to begin August 25 or 26, the president said he would invite the governors of Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri to a meeting, probably in Iowa early next month.

He obviously enjoyed the stir among reporters as he inserted Kansas casually in the list. He added that all the governors would be invited and wanted to know "why not?"

Landon, the Republican presidential candidate, has been taking an active interest in drouth conditions and his speaking trip through the East apparently will be finished in time to permit him to attend the conference.

Governor Landon's answer at Topeka was immediate.

"If there is any meeting, anywhere at any time of benefit to Kansas, I will attend" as governor of Kansas, Kansas has co-operated in every instance with the federal government and all its agencies dealing with any emergency or relief measures. My work as governor of Kansas comes ahead of anything else I am doing," he said.

Before his inauguration in 1933, President Roosevelt turned down an invitation to consult President Hoover on anti-depression measures.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Vacation time is just right for expanding the child's knowledge of the world about him.

This time I am not speaking of nature particularly, although it goes without saying that summer days are the time to absorb its beauties.

What comes to mind at the moment is the neglected opportunity for widening the child's fund of facts about art, architecture, science and history.

Families drive rapidly through cities and towns without much more thought of what they may contain other than an ice-cream cone or a toy at the nearest five-and-ten.

Is time so scarce? It is so important to get there? And then wonder later what the rush was?

Children hate to stop. They usually don't care a whoop what great man painted those yellow pictures, or why a certain building is famous for something or other, or that a statue is one of the greatest in the world.

Children eager to reach God's country, they will possibly discover more things to their liking, and museums housing the examples of progress will probably fascinate the boys. But in all likelihood they will protest, "We don't want to stop here. We want to get there and go swimming."

Once in a while, however, the very greatest favor we can do them is to march the small rebels straight up to experience whether they love it or not, in ten years listen to them say proudly, "Oh, I was there once. You ought to see it."

The real traveler always learns as he goes. It is not provincial to "look one's way. Quite the reverse. The complacent know-enough is shouting his falling from the house tops.

with all my public life." "At War With Blackwood"

Regarding the Futrell-Cook-McDonald accusation that he is aligned with Dwight H. Blackwood, former chairman of the highway commission, Bailey said:

"It is the most ridiculous thing I ever heard of and is a fair indication of their desperation, their gangster methods of politics. I want to say here that I am not financed by anyone. I had rather go back to digging ditches than to go into the governor's office with my hands tied."

"Apparently Futrell and Bob Cook are hoping that the people of Arkansas have forgotten their own unsavory connections with the old highway clique. If you have forgotten it, I'll remind you of it."

"When the first highway audit commission was created, Futrell, then a chancellor, was the first chairman of it and Bob Cook was a member. Futrell appeared before the commission with a typewritten opinion on a single piece of paper in which he held that the commission was impotent to investigate highway affairs because it had no authority to force witnesses to obey summons to appear before it."

"He had persuaded a majority of the commission to take no action when I appeared before it and offered to issue grand jury summons for any witness who was reluctant to appear. As a result the commission voted to go ahead with its investigation."

Futrell and Cook
"Then what did Futrell and Cook do? I'll tell you what they did. They quit, resigned. Why did Futrell lay down his arms and retreat from his duty? That's easily answered."

"Futrell then wanted to be re-elected chancellor, and he was afraid that if he took any part in uncovering something to the disadvantage of Blackwood, then your highway commissioner, he (Futrell) would lose the support of the highway crowd in his district and lose his job."

"Bob Cook got out because he was afraid of the Blackwood following and wanted to curry its favor for his own political advantage and personal profit."

"And now they have the unmitigated gall to try to link me with a political clique I have been at war with, in behalf of the people, all my public life. I am sure you will not be deceived by any such absurdity."

"Futrell has now taken to the radio in an attempt to keep me out of the governor's office. He is spreading slander, lies and gossip about me. It goes to show how desperate they are and indicates to what lengths Futrell and his gang of cheap, dirty, dime-grabbing politicians will go to keep Carl Bailey from being head of your state government."

Prayer meeting starts at 8 o'clock Wednesday.

OUR LADY OF GOOD HOPE Tenth Sunday After Pentecost

10:15 Morning prayer.
10:20 Catechetical instructions.
10:45 Reading "Our Sunday Visitor."

11:00 Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. Discourse: "The Parable of the Pharisee and the publican"—the Gospel reading of this Sunday, according to St. Luke.

11:45 Prayers of the novena in honor of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

11:50 Benediction with the Most Blessed Sacrament.

In the Mass of today there is a prayer, honoring the simple, pious, modern Confessor, John Vianney.

On Monday the Church honors St. Lawrence, who gave his life for Christ by a slow, roasting death on the gridiron.

Next Friday, fast, abstinence and prayer—vigil to the Feast of the Assumption.

Saturday—a holyday of obligation, observed religiously as a Sunday—the feast of the Assumption. By this traditional belief, the Church teaches that the body of the Blessed Virgin was assumed into Heaven after her burial.

solisn's don't want to go back to work. They don't want to turn back from silk to calico again. They see in me a rising sun, a new hope for Arkansas. They know they're through if I'm elected your governor."

"That's why they're using state automobiles, state gasoline to ride up and down the country on your tax money, spreading scurrilous and defamatory stories about me."

"Two of these men that want to be governor, Cook and McDonald, are puppets of a selfish clique that want to continue to fatten themselves at the public trough."

"We have had the Coolidges, Hardings and Hoovers in the statchouse long enough. Let's elect a Democrat and clean house. When I go in there I'm going to clean that old statchouse from one end to the other. They know that. That's why they're so desperate. That's why they're doing every thing in their power to put over a puppet candidate."

Fights for Pension

Bailey then went back and reviewed the enactment of the Hall 2 per cent sales tax legislation, declaring that 35 per cent of these funds should have been set aside for old age pensions and unemployables.

"Only a half million dollars has been used for that purpose—the rest has gone into the general revenue fund of that 35 per cent. Sixty-five per cent, of course, has been used for school purposes."

"At the end of this year there will be nearly $2,000,000 in the public treasury that should have been used for old age pensions. I found a loophole in the law and obtained for the old people of this state a half million dollars of that money. Every dollar of that money I obtained for the old people."

In concluding his speech Bailey said that he could have remained in the attorney general's office without opposition, "but I wanted to do greater things for my people and the state of Arkansas. I want to bring real human happiness to you. Elect me and I pledge to restore the government to the people of Arkansas."

After Bailey finished J. Oscar Humphries, candidate for state auditor, and Bob Bailey, candidate for lieutenant governor, spoke briefly in the interest of their candidacies.

Bob Bailey explained that he was not related to Carl Bailey, "but if you elect Carl your governor and me as your lieutenant it will suit me."

Evangelist to Talk About City Sunday

Rev. Bill Couch Promises to Discuss Conditions in Hope

The Rev. Bill Couch, who is conducting the tent revival at Fifth and Elm streets, promises to discuss Sunday night, in plain and unbroken language, the subject "What is the Matter With Hope, Arkansas."

The evangelist states that there is something wrong with Hope, something bad wrong, and the people of Hope are badly in need of knowing what it is that is so bad wrong with their city. Services Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

The Tide Is Turning

TO

I. L. PILKINTON

FOR

County Treasurer

Certain political factions are planning to elect their candidate County Treasurer by putting on a Last Minute GRAND RUSH. These Select Few expect to put their candidate over IN THE LAST HOURS of the campaign with misleading propaganda intended to so hopelessly split up the vote of the remaining candidates that the MAN OF THE SELECT FEW will go over by a small majority. They know that he is not the choice of the people and cannot be elected in any other manner.

I. L. PILKINTON is the strongest man in the Treasurer's race today—He will be the strongest man at the polls tomorrow. He will be elected Treasurer simply because the people of this county WILL NOT BE FOOLED. DON'T BE MISLED BY LAST MINUTE PROPAGANDA. . .Vote for I. L. PILKINTON. . . He is the candidate OF THE PEOPLE to beat the Political Jugglers.

This advertisement is written and paid for by friends of I. L. Pilkinton without his knowledge or consent simply because we believe in government of the people, by the people and for the people—and not by a few SELECT POLITICIANS.

Vote For CLIFFORD FRANKS For TREASURER

- We Recommend Clifford Franks Because;
1. We Know That He Is Qualified
 2. We Know Him to be Honest and Honorable

Clifford Franks is 34 years old. He is a young man in the prime of life. That factor is essential in a political job. This essential will enable Clifford Franks to be on the job at all hours at all times.

Clifford Franks has lived in Hope and Hempstead County for the past 12 years and in Arkansas all his life. He has been engaged in the wholesale oil business having worked for the Standard Oil Company during his residence in Hope.

Clifford Franks has taught school in the public schools of Arkansas for three years. Clifford Franks is morally capable for this job having been a member of the Methodist church and Sunday School for the past 18 years or ever since he was 16 years old.

This is the first time Clifford Franks has ever asked for a political job. Tho whole system of American government has been founded on the principle of constant change in office-holders. Mr. Franks feels that the treasurer's office is no place for a "constant" candidate. If elected to this office, Mr. Franks will serve his term and at the duration of his term of office, he will step down and let another young man have his chance.

The Friends of Clifford Franks in Hope and Hempstead County are 100% behind him.

Elmer Brown The Leading Candidate for CIRCUIT CLERK

The citizens of DeRoan township endorse him as a man self made, well worth giving a chance to show Hempstead County what he will do.

Give the young man a chance and you, as citizens of Hempstead County, will never regret the vote you cast for Elmer Brown for your next Circuit Clerk.

J. OSCAR HUMPHREY For State Auditor

In the final primary two years ago, as a candidate for re-election, I received 41,263 more votes than my nearest opponent in a three-man race—yet was declared defeated in the run-off primary, since repeated. My vote both primaries 1934-35—nearest opponent 180,517. This I believe reflected the people's choice then, and indicates an overwhelming victory now. Your vote will be appreciated.

Stamp News

By J. S. Klein

WOMAN'S great leader, Susan B. Anthony, will be honored by issuance of a new 3-cent U. S. postage stamp, on the 18th anniversary of the final ratification of the 19th amendment, which gave suffrage to the women of the United States.

The decision to issue such a stamp was the result of more than two years of constant urging by thousands of women all over the country. The stamp will bear a picture of Miss Anthony, and will be released for sale on Aug. 28, 1936. Place of first day sale has not been designated.

Miss Anthony not only was the pioneer leader in the movement for women suffrage, but she also took leading parts in all activities aimed at equal rights for women in America.

Arrangements have practically been completed for extending the trans-Pacific airmail line from Manila to Macao, Portuguese possession on the coast of China. Final plans for first flight over this route may be expected soon.

Australia will commemorate the centenary of its foundation by a new stamp of three values, showing the original settlement of Adelaide, a present view of the same city, and a picture of the proclamation tree of Glenelg. Australia also is planning a series showing the animals peculiar to that country.

And another big issue comes from Italy--this time a series of 13 values honoring the great Roman poet, Horace, who was born just about 2000 years ago. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Terral Declares He Is "Betrayed"

Asserts One Faction of Share-the-Wealthers "Sold" Him Out

LITTLE ROCK.—Tom J. Terral, former governor and candidate for another term, told a crowd of several thousand at the City park bandshell Friday night that supporters of County Judge R. A. Cook had induced some Share-the-Wealth Society representatives by unfair means to announce transfer of that organization's support from Terral to Cook.

The former governor exhibited a statement purporting to have been signed by Charles Lehigh, Share-the-Wealth Society state secretary, admitting his part in the alleged scheme and naming several others among Terral supporters or ex-supporters as participants.

Otho Cook, automobile dealer, who is actively associated with his father's campaign, said that ex-Governor Terral's charges were without foundation.

He declared, that when informed of Terral's charges, he first learned that leaders of the Share-the-Wealth Society were interested in Judge Cook's candidacy Tuesday morning when W. T. Sillington, managing editor of the Arkansas Democrat, telephoned him that a group of them were at the Democrat office and wished to live up for Cook.

Later, after Mr. Sillington had denied that he had summoned Otho Cook to the Democrat office, the latter said that he had been mistaken and that the matter of the Share-the-Wealth endorsement had been broached at the Cook campaign headquarters by George Greenhaw, Jonesboro lawyer, who formerly was associated with Senator John C. Ashley's campaign. Senator Ashley withdrew from the race Monday.

Otho Cook, in conceding that he had erred in saying Mr. Sillington called him, said that Mr. Greenhaw had asked whether Judge Cook would like to have the Share-the-Wealth organization's endorsement.

The judge's son said that he telephoned his father, who was out of the city on his speaking tour, and told him of the proposal. Otho Cook said that his father told him that he would accept the Share-the-Wealth support.

"Hello Pat! How are you getting on as a salesman?"

"Fine, I got two orders in the very first office I went into."

"Is that so?"

"Yes; one was 'Get out!' and the other was 'Step out!'"

"Then we're engaged?"

"Of course."

"And I am the first girl you ever loved?"

"No, dear, but I'm harder to suit than I used to be."

THE WEALTH OF NATURAL BEAUTY IN THE AMERICAN COUNTRYSIDE

There is Zest and Ruggedness In America

Inspirational Editorial By BRUCE CATTON—Cartoon By HERBLOCK

THE Englishman is famous for taking long walks beside his celebrated lakes, the German for planting himself comfortably in a bierstube and inhaling sausages and beer, the Italian for gathering in public squares and hollering "E viva il Duce!"

And the American is beginning to acquire an equally distinguishing national habit; he likes to get into the car, and drive out into the open country, whenever he gets a chance.

Considering the awful beating that his climate gives him every so often, he must have a strong, ingrained love of nature to do this. For he does not live in kindly land.

In winter it freezes his bones, and in summer it bakes him to a crisp. It drowns him in floods and dries him up in drouths. It smites him with dust storms and tornadoes and now and then it gives him the jar of an earthquake.

And yet, in spite of everything, he knows that it is a grand, grand country for a man to live in. The earliest settlers knew it, when they had Indians and tangled forests and swamp fever to contend with; their up-to-date descendants know it, and wheel the family bus out along the country roads on the slightest excuse.

WE seldom realize just how effectively our landscape and our climate mold our national character. We take after them, so to speak. If we are vastly unlike our European ancestors, it is because our land is so vastly unlike Europe. Everything is built to a larger scale over here; it is more spacious, more untamed, more boisterous and rugged.

An English river is an orderly and neat sort of streams, flowing placidly between grassy banks, fit for the meditations of a man like Wordsworth.

An American river is something that will stand for no foolishness and doesn't know what neatness means. It will boil over periodically in turbulent floods, or change its course overnight. It has a wild and uncontrolled beauty that is always just a little frightening.

THE contrast is the same all the way down the line. Our mountains sprawl in jumbled thousand-mile chains, splendid beyond words and always a bit harsh and threatening. Our great inland farm belt rolls on and on for league upon league, big enough to swallow all England without noticing it; its wheat fields ripple in the sun like a great golden ocean, its corn belt is a limitless green wilderness.

All this has done things to us. It is not for nothing that our heroes of folklore are brawling giants like Mike Fink and Paul Bunyan; that our national game, baseball, is tinged with rowdiness; that while we are generous and friendly, we also are capable of towering anger and heedless cruelty. These things have grown out of our countryside.

And a grand, grand countryside it is. We love it with a vast and inarticulate love.

We seldom bother to say much about it; but from earliest spring to latest fall we crowd the roads with unending lines of cars, look at our endless earth, and breathe the drifting sea of its wine-like air—and understand anew that we are lords of a great land, on which can be built mankind's fairest society.

The old man looked dazed and scratched his head for a minute before attempting to reply. "You want to know how der stairs run?" repeated. "Yes, if you please, how der stairs run."

Join Us In Electing R. L. BYERS To the Office of COUNTY JUDGE of Hempstead County

He Has Rendered Faithful Services in the Past And Will Do the Same Again

While the race for the office of county judge in Hempstead County is a warm one, there is every indication that R. L. Byers will prove a winner for the voters of this county can well remember the past splendid services of that gentleman in the county judge's office.

He served in the office from 1914 to 1918 and it was under his able and efficient management that the new county jail was erected, and he managed to bring the county out of debt during his regime in the office for the first time since 1904 which proved his splendid business ability and also proved that he truly had the initiative.

These things were accomplished by Mr. Byers under many trying conditions and in the face of the fact that at that time he was responsible for all road construction and work in the county as the state had not yet taken over any of the roads.

It will be remembered that Judge Byers was always on the job, he kept

RALPH BAILEY

FOR

CIRCUIT CLERK

In one of the cleanest campaigns ever conducted by candidates asking for public office in Hempstead County, the time is near at hand when you must choose between these men who offer themselves for Hempstead County's Circuit Clerk.

We as Ralph Bailey's friends who have known him the greater part of his life have this to say in his behalf and want to pass it on to the voters of Hempstead County.

Ralph Bailey is a young man of unquestionable character. There can be no doubt as to his qualifications.

Honest, Efficient and Courteous

He has them all and can be relied on to handle the affairs of the office in a way thoroughly satisfactory to the citizens of this county.

Ralph Bailey is thirty-eight years old and is asking for his first political job. County offices belong to the people. Rotation in office is a long established principle of our government. Only by a continual change, do we play fairly with the great number of young men who are constantly arising to take the place of those before them.

We know Ralph Bailey is the type of man who will devote himself to the affairs of this office with the knowledge that the record he makes these will affect his entire business career ahead of him. He will step down at the expiration of his traditional term and leave the office open for some other man to follow.

Marion Zioncheck

Ruby Louise Nix of Texarkana, Ark., was waiting.

Mittelstadt said Nadeau had gone to the office to get Zioncheck to attend a postal employees' dinner and that Mrs. Zioncheck remained in the car. The office door was locked, but Nadeau said he got a janitor to unlock it and found Zioncheck writing a note, the coroner said.

Looking over the desk, Nadeau saw the note and told Zioncheck, "Oh, cut that out and come on."

Zioncheck had announced his withdrawal from the congressional race last Saturday but Monday had filed his declaration of candidacy on the Democratic ticket.

He said he had decided to run again only after his mother said she wanted him to prove to the people that he was "neither crazy nor foolish."

In Series of Escapades Zioncheck returned here recently from Washington after a series of escapades involving accusations of disturbing the peace and arrests for speeding. He was confined in a Maryland mental hospital. He left the hospital by climbing a back fence.

The representative's career started at the University of Washington. There he was elected president of the student body. Some time later he was thrown into the frosh pond on the campus by a band of hooded students after he had launched a campaign against management of the football team and fraternities.

He was first elected to congress in 1932 and re-elected in 1934.

Married Texarkana Girl His Washington antics began last New Year's eve when he plugged in all the telephones in his Washington, D. C., apartment house. Later he was arrested for speeding. This was followed by several other arrests for similar violations.

He married Miss Ruby Louise Nix of Texarkana, Ark., a Works Progress Administration stenographer in Washington, in Annapolis, Md., April 28, after borrowing $2 for his marriage license. His marriage followed a whirlwind courtship. Mr. and Mrs. Zioncheck had a rollicking honeymoon trip to Florida and the Virgin Islands, during which his escapades and troubles led him to try to call out the marines for protection.

Repeal the Thorn Liquor Law

The Unfairest Law Ever Placed on the Statute Books of Arkansas

The wets have their orders from headquarters and will take us to a worse, if possible, cleaning if we vote them in.

If we must have liquor make the wets vote it in.

Get a law that will compel the sale of liquor in daylight hours only. Grocery and other stores close at 6 o'clock.

2970 Citizens Voted for Me Two Years Ago Out of a Total Vote of 3825 Cast in Hempstead County

Since 1934, many who were not among that number have given assurances of their support. It wasn't any powerful organization that enabled us to achieve that victory in 1934. It was the determination of the unorganized masses to cast off the shackles of political manipulation. Hence, my duty to you people who elected me has been, and is, closest to my heart.

That I could have had a second term in my present position without opposition is conceded even by those political autocrats who now assail me because I stand in the way of their continued rule over a people presumed to be free.

From my office within your capitol, I saw the grasping hands of selfish interests and spoilsmen set a trap for the people. I could have remained in my present position, snugly secure, with an assured income; or I could challenge the political gangsters before it was too late.

My confidence in you unfettered, undismayed, untrifled Democrats who owe allegiance to no clique, clan or gang was, and is, so great that I did not hesitate to enter this race for governor. For me to do otherwise would have cost my self-respect, would have left me to dry-rot away in a position of security, knowing I had failed in my duty to you.

I know that my confidence in you is well founded, and that your votes on August 11 will be a mandate through years to come for all in public office to so conduct the government that it's every act shall be an open book, with no suppressed chapters.

The political gangsters are floundering about like drowning rats, trying to find something to cling to. They are "whispering" slanders and "shouting" deliberate falsehoods.

But you who stood with me in 1934 and you who have joined since in this movement for a government in which the people, and not those on the public payrolls, shall be served—all you need to do is hold the ground that has been won, and a new day politically and economically will dawn in Arkansas on August 11.

(Signed) CARL BAILEY.

P. S.—Two years ago I won by a clear majority, receiving 126,171 of the total votes cast, far more than will be needed to win on August 11.

Carl Bailey Your GOVERNOR

WHO IS THIS MAN BAILEY?

The Left - Handed Politician Who THROWS CURVES With EITHER HAND

He talks about a Slush Fund, yet is spending more money than all the other candidates in the race. Yes, there is a Slush Fund—

BUT, IT'S BAILEY'S SLUSH FUND

Raised by the Old Blackwood Gang, who for four long years, have been unable to get their hands in the Public Treasury.

This Is a Fight Between Honest Government and Graft

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

THE FUTRELL GANG

The Forces of Good Government

Two factions are fighting to elect a governor. One faction is supporting McDonald and the other is supporting Carl Bailey. You are vitally interested in which is to control your State Government for the next four years.

The Administration forces, or the "Futrell Gang," is supporting McDonald. Let's see what they have done for the people of Arkansas.

The "Futrell Gang"

1. The "Futrell Gang" cut the cost of government more than one-half.
2. The "Futrell Gang" reduced your automobile license one-half.
3. The "Futrell Gang" saved your farms from foreclosure by refunding your road bonds.
4. The "Futrell Gang" restored the State's credit and saved its good name throughout the United States.
5. The "Futrell Gang" has given you an honest Administration.

THE 3 B WRECKING CREW

Bailey, Blackwood and Bunk

Candidate Bailey was Prosecuting Attorney of the district which embraces Pulaski County during the time Dwight Blackwood was bankrupting the State.

Today Bailey and Blackwood, in an attempt to re-establish themselves at the Pie Counter, have laid down a carefully studied Barrage of Bunk for the purpose of befuddling the minds of the people so that they may carry on in their customary high-handed manner.

The Three B Accomplishments

1. Dwight Blackwood, aided and protected by Bailey, squandered the people's money by letting contracts to his friends—on a "cost-plus" basis.
2. Dwight Blackwood was indicted for his brazen squandering of the people's money.
3. Candidate Bailey, stringing along with Blackwood, quashed all the indictments.
5. The Wrecking Crew, having ruined the State, evacuated the Capitol since all the people's money had been spent.

Hempstead County Is Proud of McDONALD

Hempstead County friends of Ed. McDonald are certain that he will be elected Governor on August 11. Thousands of voters all over the state have flocked to his banner and are anxious to make the majority overwhelming.

Ed. McDonald has not solicited the support of any group or clique, but welcomes the support of people from all walks of life.

Ed McDonald Owes Allegiance To No Faction Or Clique

He solicits the support and the vote of all people who believe in good Government and a clean, capable administration of the State's affairs.

ED. McDONALD FAVORS:

- The Sales Tax for the purpose of paying Old Age Pensions and for the support of the Schools.
- Full co-operation with the Federal Agencies to bring payments for Old Age Pensions and to crippled children and dependent mothers, to a minimum of $30.00 per month.
- A continuance of the Bond Refunding Program.
- The organization of a State Agency to promote a State-wide Program of Flood Control.
- The Equitable Disposition of Road Building funds to all counties.
- A Refunding Program to take care of School District Bonds.
- The protection and advancement of Agriculture, Labor, Business and Industry.

WHO SHALL RULE?

Ed. F. McDonald who has the support of the Administration that has saved the state's credit; that has saved your homes; that has cut the cost of government; that has given you an honest Administration:

OR—

The Blackwood gang that wrecked the State's credit and ruined the people of Arkansas?

GO TO THE POLLS ON AUGUST 11TH AND VOTE FOR ED. F. McDONALD AND GOOD GOVERNMENT

Read the Record!

During Bailey's term as prosecuting attorney in Pulaski County, gambling flourished and the bootlegger went about without much molestation. The hell holes and dives plied their trade in security. When the Grand Jury would indict, nolle prosequi these places was the favorite pastime of Bailey. He just nolle prosequi 730 cases. He prosecuted Banks and Sheck for which Johnny Wells made a hero of him. Banks never went to the Penitentiary, but the famous Bailey nolle prosequi the other cases against him. Banks is now supporting Bailey—something rotten in Denmark?

There is a judgment against Claude Duty for $5,000.00 in favor of the State. During the two years Bailey has been Attorney General, Bailey has not collected off of Duty. Duty is one of his henchmen. That is action, isn't it?

Bailey employed some Oklahoma attorneys to collect a million and a half dollars back taxes from certain insurance companies. Why didn't he bring this suit and collect it and save the State $350,000.00, which otherwise will go to the attorneys? How much these attorneys will scatter out to their friends is a matter of surmise. There is an excuse why he should employ an attorney with some ability. He could have found such lawyers in Arkansas, but lawyers of ability might not have made terms that suited Bailey. The State loses the approximate sum of $350,000.00 because it has an incompetent in the Attorney General's office. About the only case in which the Supreme Court ever upheld Carl Bailey since he became Attorney General is the case in which he admitted that he had given an opinion contrary to the law.

What has Bailey done since he has been in the Attorney General's office? Just tell me one thing he has done that is worthwhile. Yet, he says he is a twelve cylinder. Readers, do you know anything he has done that is worth a thing? He says he got the welfare money. Any man that has sense enough to get out of the rain knows that is not true because he had no connection with it. Bailey has never done anything except pop off and show out. He has enough ego in him for a whole regiment of men.

SOME VERY SERIOUS CONDITIONS THAT EXISTED IN THE STATE, BUT NOT ALL OF THEM, WHEN J. M. FUTRELL WAS INAUGURATED AS GOVERNOR

The convicts were nearly naked and barefooted and had nothing to eat but field peas, sweet potatoes and cornbread. There was not a dollar in the treasury that could be used to buy food and clothing and the Penitentiary couldn't buy a box of soda on a credit. The Penitentiary owed to individuals $344,000.00.

The State's operating expenses had exceeded its income by more than a million dollars. This indebtedness was represented by outstanding warrants and was nearly enough to consume all the general revenue that would come in for a year. Warrants were at a great discount and if the truth had been known warrants would not have been worth more than 10c on the dollar. The State could not run much longer in that condition. The bonded indebtedness of the State for roads was in default and $11,000,000.00 on this indebtedness was past due and beyond the power of the people to pay. The State was bankrupt and could not pay. The homes of the people in the improvement districts in sixty-two counties were subject to foreclosure and sale and the people were helpless to prevent it.

What was done to relieve the foregoing conditions? The Penitentiary was put on a cash basis and has lived within its income and has made some money. Part of its indebtedness has been paid and other profits have gone into necessary improvements to that institution. The Penitentiary has made some money every year and the prospects are that it will make $250,000.00 this year. If properly managed, instead of being a charge upon the taxpayers of the State, it will be a source of revenue from hereon. Various factories have been installed, by which the convicts make their own shoes, clothing and bedding. They raise and can their own foods and have many thousands of dollars worth to sell to other institutions, besides other farm supplies which they are selling to other institutions of the State. The indebtedness of the Wright Plantation has been settled. Lands not including the Wright place have been bought for one-fourth of the money and the Penitentiary should make enough money this year to pay out these terms in full.

In order to get on a cash basis, offices and departments were abolished. Others were consolidated. Salaries were cut. The expenses of the State government were cut more than half. During the campaign, Governor Futrell had said that if the Legislature would agree to it that the expenses of the State government would be cut in half. Expenses were CUT MORE THAN HALF. It was said that this was an electioneering scheme on the part of Futrell. Nevertheless, it was carried out. The appropriations from January to July, were cut 30%. Twenty per cent of a diminished and dried up general revenue was used for a sinking fund on which to place the outstanding warrants of more than one million dollars. This enabled us to pay, out of current revenues, operating expenses of the State government. We were on a cash basis in less than forty-five days after Futrell took office and have remained on it since that time.

Negotiations with the leading bond issues began in December, 1932, and continued until just before the special session of the Legislature in the early part of 1934, by which an agreement was reached which reduced the annual payment on road bonds more than $1,250,000.00. In pursuance of that agreement a special session was called to carry it out. After much controversy the bill became a law and has been successful. The homes of the people were saved and the credit of the State has been restored. Its good name is again fairly established.

Due to the depression, many poor people became unable to pay their taxes. In many cases they were delinquent for three years. A law was passed which allowed these people to redeem their lands from these three years' taxes without penalty and interest. This enabled thousands of poor people to save their little homes. Had this not been done, they would have lost them. It is true that the owners of wild lands took advantage of it to redeem but this could not be prevented. It was worth it to save the homes of thousands of people. It had the further effect of bringing these lands upon the tax books to become a source of revenue to support the county and municipal government and our schools. While these lands were delinquent on the tax books not one penny was being collected and could not be because the title was in the State and the State does not tax its own property.

Automobile license taxes on passenger cars were cut half into and on old four cylinder cars were cut three-fourths. Attention is also called to the fact that the more than one million dollars indebtedness on account of the expense of the government exceeding the revenue—has been paid—the last dollar of it—by savings and not by an extra tax, as was done by the $750,000.00 of Brough notes in 1917, which debt has not yet been paid.

These are the most outstanding accomplishments. There are many others of less importance, but important, that have been accomplished during the Futrell Administration. The Futrell Administration is now called the Futrell Gang, and is being denounced in the most insidious way by that gang of pirates who once destroyed the State government and want to get back in since there is quite a lot of money in the State Treasury which has accumulated. These pirates and buccanniers can dispose of this money.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

by
WILLIAM FERGUSON

CURIOUSLY, THE AXIAL ROTATION PERIOD OF THE MOON IS EXACTLY EQUAL TO THE TIME REQUIRED FOR THE MOON TO REVOLVE AROUND THE EARTH—THUS, WE SEE ONLY ONE SIDE OF IT.

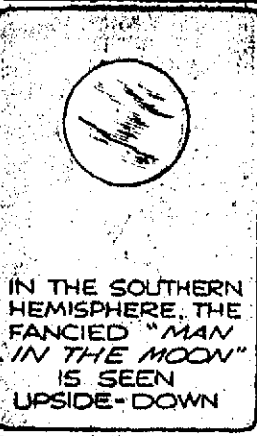

THE MOON IS THE EARTH'S NEAREST CELESTIAL NEIGHBOR, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF OCCASIONAL COMETS AND METEORS. THE MOON PRODUCES THE EARTH'S TIDES, BUT WEATHER MEN AGREE THAT IT HAS NO EFFECT ON OUR WEATHER AND CROPS

MANY ASTRONOMERS BELIEVE THE MOON IS COMPOSED OF A SECTION OF THE EARTH THAT WAS TORN OUT BY CENTRIFUGAL FORCE, AT A TIME WHEN OUR GLOBE WAS SPINNING RAPIDLY

THE MOON HAS A DIAMETER ABOUT ONE-FOURTH THAT OF THE EARTH, AND THE DISTANCE FROM US AVERAGES ABOUT 237,000 MILES. IT SHINES ENTIRELY BY REFLECTING THE SUN'S RAYS. IF THE SUN STOPPED SHINING, THE MOON, ALSO, WOULD DISAPPEAR FROM SIGHT. LUNAR GRAVITY IS ONLY ONE-SIXTH THAT HERE ON OUR SPHERE, AND ATMOSPHERE IS LACKING ENTIRELY.

BOY, WE GOTTA HURRY! THE GAME'LL START IN ABOUT TEN MINUTES!!

I MADE IT!!

GEE, I CAN'T GO TO THE BALL GAME THIS WAY!

YA BETTER HURRY HOME AN' CHANGE YOUR PANTS! I'LL MEET YOU INSIDE THE PARK!

BUT MOM, I JUST GOTTA SEE THAT BALL GAME!

WELL, YOU CAN SEE IT IN THOSE PANTS! YOUR OTHERS ARE AT THE CLEANERS!

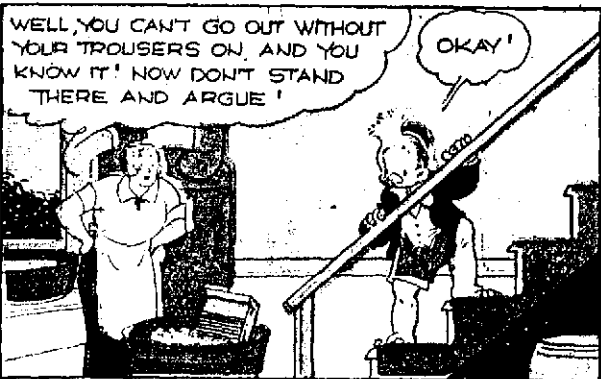

CAN'T YA WASH 'EM, MOM? I JUST GOTTA SEE THAT GAME!

YES, BUT IT WILL TAKE AT LEAST FOUR HOURS FOR THEM TO DRY!!

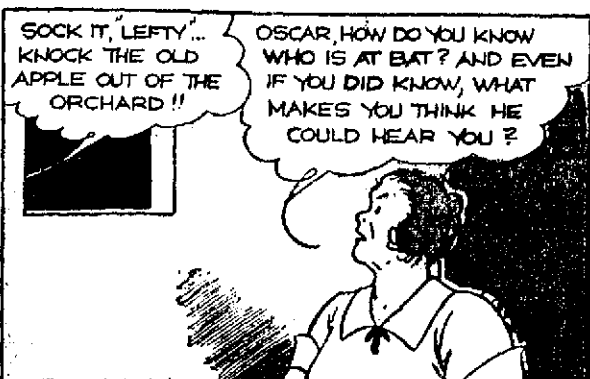

YOU CAN SEE THE GAME FROM THE WINDOW! WE'RE HIGH ENOUGH!

BUT WE DON'T HAVE ANY WINDOWS ON THE NORTH SIDE OF THE HOUSE...AN' THAT'S WHERE THE BASE BALL PARK IS!!

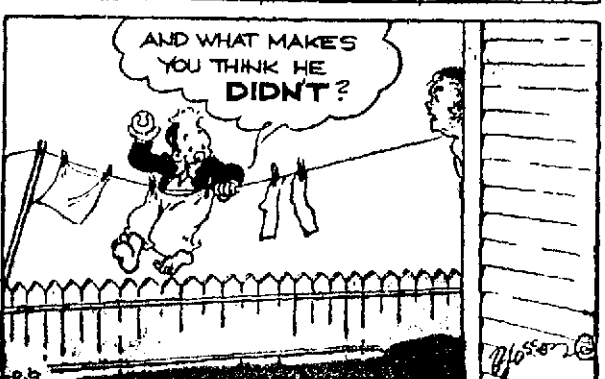

WELL, YOU CAN'T GO OUT WITHOUT YOUR TROUSERS ON, AND YOU KNOW IT! NOW DON'T STAND THERE AND ARGUE!

OKAY!

SOCK IT, LEFTY!... KNOCK THE OLD APPLE OUT OF THE ORCHARD!!

OSCAR, HOW DO YOU KNOW WHO IS AT BAT? AND EVEN IF YOU DID KNOW, WHAT MAKES YOU THINK HE COULD HEAR YOU?

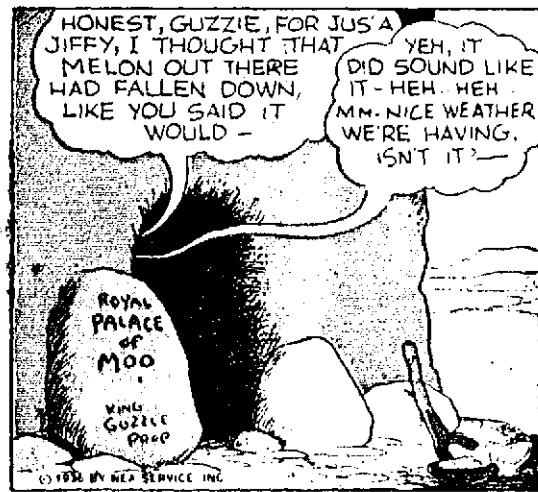

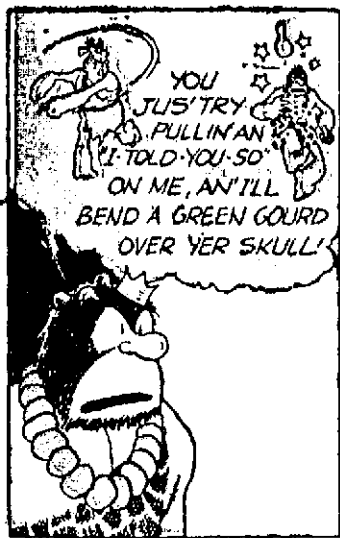

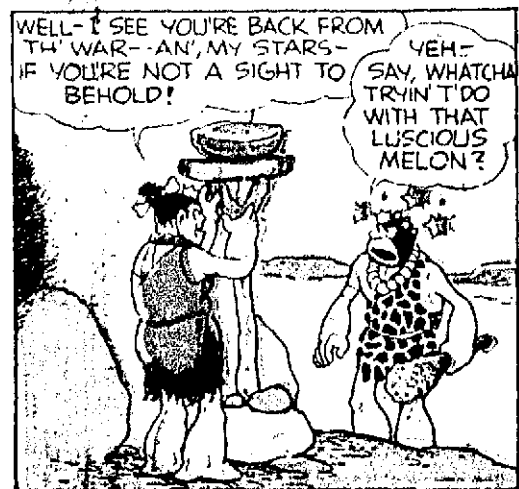

AND WHAT MAKES YOU THINK HE DIDN'T?

GEOSAURUS

A MARINE CROCODILE OF THE JURASSIC ERA WHILE CROCODILES, AS A GROUP, CAME INTO PROMINENCE DURING THE EARLY PART OF THIS PERIOD, SOME, SUCH AS THE ONE PICTURED HERE, TOOK TO THE WATER. CONSEQUENTLY, THEY APPARENTLY LOST THEIR ARMOR, REDEVELOPED THEIR TAILS AS A MAIN SWIMMING ORGAN, AND THE LEGS MODIFIED TO SERVE AS PADDLES.

SO YOU REMEMBERED ABOUT A CERTAIN CRESTED RING YOU HAD? THEN, CURLY, YOU MUST REMEMBER WHO YOU ARE!

HUH? OH-ER-- NO-- THAT IS... PLEASE GET ME MY COAT!

WHY DON'T YOU TRUST ME, CURLY? I'M SURE I CAN HELP YOU, IF ONLY--

I COMMAND YOU TO BRING ME THAT RING!

VERY WELL, SINCE YOU COMMAND ME... I HAVE NO ALTERNATIVE...

THAT'S BETTER-- PROVE YOUR FRIENDSHIP!

SO THE BOY PATIENT IS USED TO COMMANDING, EH? THAT ALMOST EXPLAINS EVERYTHING-- NOW-- IF ONLY, I CAN FIND THAT RING-- UMM... IT'S NOT IN HIS POCKETS...

AH! HERE WE ARE-- IT'S SEWED IN HIS COAT LINING-- WHAT WAS THAT? THE LABORATORY DOOR CLICKED!

QUICKLY MOVING TOWARD THE ONLY DOOR IN THE ROOM, MYRA FINDS IT LOCKED

HOW SILLY-- TO THINK THEY COULD KEEP ME PRISONER HERE-- DR. BURGESS WILL HAVE THE POLICE HERE ANY MINUTE, NOW!

VAGUELY AWARE OF A PECULIAR, PUNGENT ODOR IN THE ROOM, MYRA CALMLY PROCEEDS TO UNCOVER THE RING

WELL, WELL! THE CREST IS THAT OF ANGURA-- AND IT'S INSCRIBED TO HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS, CROWN PRINCE ADRIAN!

SUDDENLY MYRA IS SEIZED WITH A FIT OF COUGHING! SHE STRUGGLES TOWARD THE WINDOW, BUT FALLS....

WHILE, IN CURLY'S ROOM--

THAT NURSE HAS DOUBLE-CROSSED ME-- I MUST FIND HER... AND MY RING!

I'LL STAY ON THE BALCONY-- THEN I CAN LOOK INTO THE VARIOUS ROOMS WITHOUT BEING SEEN--

GOSH! SHE'S IN THERE ON THE FLOOR-- PROBABLY FAINED! SUCH LUCK! THIS WINDOW'S LOCKED ON THE INSIDE!

MEANWHILE, IN THE BASEMENT OF THE HOSPITAL, A FIGURE OF MILITARY BEARING BENDS INTENTLY OVER A CERTAIN ELECTRICAL MACHINE.
